ABOUT THE PROJECT?Games are one of the basic needs of primary school students. In the school age, especially in the first years of primary education, many psychomotor skills are learned within the game. Games are useful tools for both the child's psychomotor development and other development of the child. During our project, we aim to make the English language popular by playing games in primary school English courses and to make permanent learning and to provide an environment for cooperation and exchange of ideas between teachers.
